U.S. Bank Note Company Issues: 1870-1890 with Clark Frazier

Imagine the complexity of stamp issues printed by three different printing companies over a twenty-year period. During the course, you will learn to identify design changes including secret marks and re-engraving, grills and special printings and to distinguish the difference between hard and soft papers. We also will discuss current controversies and new research. Students will learn expertizing techniques for identifying Bank Note stamps. This is an intermediate-level course but can accommodate beginners at the instructor's discretion.

Clark is an American Philatelic Society instructor of philatelic marketplace, buying and selling on the Internet, and fakes/forgeries courses. He worked for Microsoft and has a side career as a philatelic dealer of better United States stamps.
